Copyright License & FERPA Release

By signing and submitting this license, the below-signed rights owner (hereinafter “Rights Owner”) grants to Cornell University Library (hereinafter “Library”) the non-exclusive right to reproduce, publicly distribute, and publicly display ___________________________________ (hereinafter “Work”).
(N.B. Please attach appendix to this document if granting rights to more than one work)

In addition, the Rights Owner grants the Library the right to keep more than one copy of the Work for the purposes of security, backup, and preservation, and to migrate or convert the work, without alteration of the content, to any medium or format now known or ever created for the purpose of preservation and/or continued distribution and display.

The Library acknowledges that this is a non-exclusive license. Any copyright in the submission remain with the Rights Owner. When making the work available, the Library will make reasonable efforts to attribute ownership to the Rights Owner.

The Rights Owner represents that s/he has the authority to grant this license to the Library. The Rights Owner further represents that the submission does not, to the best of her/his knowledge, infringe upon any third-party’s copyright or right to privacy and does not contain anything defamatory or contrary to law.

FERPA AUTHORIZATION (for students)

The Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) protects educational records of students. Students whose educational works appear in the Library’s digital collections of physical exhibits and displays must give permission to Cornell University to provide access to or present displays or exhibitions of their work.

By signing and submitting this license, you agree to make your work publicly accessible in furtherance of the University's educational and research mission.

The parties hereby execute this Agreement:
